TECHNICAL PLEA OF CANADIAN GUARANTY COMPANY.

REFUSES PAYMENT OF LOSSES.

ON GROUNDS THAT ITS KANSAS LI-CENSE HAS BEEN REVOKED.

Suit of George Fowler, Son & Co., Limited, Against Guaranty Company of North America to Recover $1,900-Miscellancous.

Attorneys Angevine and Cubbison argued plea in abatement before Judge Alden, of the district court, yesterday, in the case of the George Fowler, Son & Co. (Limited) against the Guaranty Company of North America, a Canadian corporation, to recover $1,900. Messrs. Angevine and Cubbison, who represent the defendant company, argued that inasmuch as State Insurance Commissioner McNall had refused to issue their company a license to do business in the state, the Fowler company was thus barred from recovering on a policy written by their client. They also set up the claim that the defendant company was not an in-surance company, and that it had no agents or offices in Kansas. The matter was taken under advisement by Judge Alden, whose decision will be awaited with interest, as it will be an important one from a business point of view.

According to the petition filed by the Fowlers, the Guaranty company issued poli-cies assuring the fidelity of about twenty of Fowler's employes. While these policies were in force John McKinzie, the company's agent at Montgomery, Ala, was dis-covered to be short in his accounts with the covered to be short in his accounts with the company in the sum of $1.90. McKinzie was one of the men whose fidelity has been guaranteed by the Guaranty company. The Fowlier company made no effort to catch McKinzie, but fell back on the Guaranty company for the shortage. The Guaranty company refused to settle the claim on the grounds that it had been refused a license to do business in the state and that it had withdrawn from Kansas, altogether, hence it could not be sued in Kansas.

Attorney C. F. Hutchings, for the Fowler company, argued against the dismissal of the case. He showed that when the Guaranty company issued the policies it was doing business in Kansas protected by a license issued by ex-Governor Anthony, who was then insurance commissioner, and that further one the defender.

was then insurance commissioner, and that furthermore the defendant company gave furthermore the defendant company gave the commissioner power of attorney under which any policyholder in the state could sue the Guaranty company. An affidavit from Commissioner McNall was produced in which he says that the power of attorney has disappeared from his office. It is claimed that if Judge Alden should decide for the Guaranty company the only remedy at law left for the Fowler company will be to sue the Guaranty company in the Canadian courts. It is not positively known, but it is thought that this same company is now carrying a large number of policies now carrying a large number of policies this state of the same nature as the one which the Fowler company is endeavor-

CASE HEARD ON APPEAL.

Damage Suit of Mrs. Josephine Curran Against Swift & Co. in the United States Court.

A telegram received from Topeka yesterday announced that the case of Josephine Curran against Swift & Co. had been tried in the circuit court of the United States, now in session. This case arose from the death of the plaintiff's husband, on September 22 at the works of the defendant company. He was crushed by a box truck falling off an elevator which was not properly guarded. When the case was called the defendant waived a jury and it was submitted to the court for trial. The court found for the plaintiff and assessed her damages at the sum of $2.000 and costs, which was substantially a compromise. She sued the company for $10,600.

DEITZ WILL NOT GIVE BOND. Attorneys Deem It Not Worth While Because of the Early Retrial.

The attorneys for William Deitz have not yet attempted to secure a bond for the release of the convicted man and it is understood that no effort will be made to get the required bond.

This is due to the fact that the December term of the district court will begin December 6 and Deitz' case is one of the first on the docket. It is claimed that owing to the limited time between now and the date of the new trial it is not worth while to procure a bond. Deitz is taking matters calmly and expresses himself as confident of success at the rehearing of his case.

DIAMOND BIRTHDAY PARTY. Lawyer Friends of J. B. Scroggs Surprise the Oldest Member of the Wyandotte Bar.

Mrs. J. B. Seroggs gave a banquet on Wednesday evenin, November 24, at her home, in honor of the 60th birthday anniversary of Mr. Scroggs. The guests were intimate friends of Mr. Scroggs, and members of the legal profession. The party was a surprise to Mr. Scroggs, and was made more complete by the presentation of a beautiful watch chain and charm, the charm being set with diamonds, and bearing the inscription, "John B. Scroggs-Sixtieth Birthday-From Lawyer Friends." The guests were Hon. H. L. Alden, Hon. W. G. Holt, Hon. W. J. Buchan, Hon. O. L. Miller, Hon. J. K. Cubbison, C. K. Wells, A. L. Berger, W. R. Smith, J. McCabe Moore, G. B. Watson, A. E. Watson, R. E. Morris, R. E. Melling and J. E. McFadden, of Kansas City, Mo., and General E. L. Bartlett, of Santa Fe, N. M. One of the principal features of the occasion was a very appropriate address by General Rartlett who was former. the Wyandotte Bar.

Yens and General E. L. Bartlett, of Santa Fe, N. M. One of the principal features of the occasion was a very appropriate address by General Bartlett, who was formerly a law partner of Mr. Scroggs.

Hon. W. J. Buchan, in a litting and well worded address on behalf of those present, presented the birthday gift. He said:

"Well, John, the look of surprise on your face seems to ask the question, What does this all mean? Now, old man, if you will just listen to me a moment I will tell you all there is to it. It simply means that a few of your friends of the bar thought it would be a pleasure to them, at least, to halt you at your 60th milepost for a moment, if only to tell you that, with all your faults, we love you still. Don't get nervous now; we are not here to remind you of all of your shortcomings; one evening might not permit of that; neither are we here to enumerate all your virtues; life might be too short for that.

"But we are reminded of the fact that, in point of service, you are the oldest member of this bar. For thirty years—one-half of your life—you have been a regular attendant, and have followed the meanderings of our court, from that little room up a rickety fight of stairs, on the north side of Nebraska avenue, where Brewer presided, down to Lugibihl's hall, on Third street, then the business part of the town, thence up the hill to more pretentious quarters in Dunning's hall, on Fourth street, and finally to its present location on Seventh street.

up to the Methodist church, on Fifth street, and finally to its present location on Seventh street.

"During your service at this bar you have had occasion to examine every statute of the state, from the Bogus laws of '55 to the Cubbison law of '95, and, when the interest of your client demanded, you haven't hesitated to declare them all unconstitutional constitutional.

"You have seen the volumes of the supreme court accumulate on the shelves of your library from volume 3 to No. 57, and if my memory serves me right, you haven't always agreed with the conclusions of the if my memory serves me right, you haven't always agreed with the conclusions of the court, either.

"Of those originally associated with you you in the practice here I fail to recall any that now remain—Sharp, Hale Cobb, Cook, Glick and Cooper have all made their last appeal before that court where decrees are final and where judgments are unquestioned by mortal man. What a flood of memories these reflections recall, but, after all, John, the memories of life are the most binding and their impressions the most lasting, and that is why we call on you to-night. This is your 90th birthday; this is your thirtieth year at this bar, and it is in remembrance of the pleasant memories that cluster around all these yeers of our professional and social intercourse with you, that your associates bid me hand you this little token of our respect and esteem, and it is our wish that every link in this chain shall serve to bind with its gold band the fellowship of the past, and the friendship of the future, and may this beautiful charm be a constant reminder that your declining years are more than blessed with this delightful home and surrounded with this loving and devoted family."

Mrs. Scroggs was assisted in receiving and entertaining by her daughters. Mesdames R. E. Melling and J. E. McFadden, and by Miss M. Loulse Alden, of Ashtabula. O.

The Poultry Show. Many took advantage of the change in the weather yesterday afternoon and visited Chickering hall to see the poultry show. They were amply repaid for their trouble, for the exhibit is pronounced by fanciers to be one of the finest ever given in the West. J. J. Singer, of this city, was awarded first prize for the best display of pit game chickens, of which he has a number of varieties. Dr. J. L. Hamilton was given first prize for the best pit game hen, and Nelson R. Nye won both first and second prizes for barred Plymouth Rock pullets and first for Partridge Cochin cock and hen.

The highest score was made by a White Leghorn, owned by H. C. Short, the score being 36%. The heaviest bird shown was a Light Brahma, which weighed fourteen pounds.

The association feels very much encouraged over its first exhibition, and next season will try and make it eclipse the presentation.

Death From Shock.

Friday evening a wagon driven by Frederick Voss was struck by an electric car on Third street, between Delaware and Cherokee. Shortly afterwards Voss was discovered lying in the street, as if thrown from the wagon. He was carried into a hotel near by, but died during the night. The motorman of the car states that he was not on the wagon when it was struck. As no marks of violence were found on his person, an autopsy was held yesterday afternoon and the physicians gave it as their opinion that he died from a shock. Voss came to this country in 1873 from Hanover, Germany, and has no known relatives here, but is said to have a brother living in the old country. He was in comfortable circumstances and owned an interest in a livery stable. His funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Wanted to Get Even.

George Stewart wanted to get even with Deputy Sheriff Shallcross for some fanced grievance and as a result is now in the county jail. He was on South Second street near the Soldeirs' home yesterday and proceeded to fill himself with a fighting quality of whisky. When satisfied with his condition he drew a 44-caliber revolver and announced that he wanted to get even with the deputy. As a means of getting his hand in he commenced to belabor a number of old veterans with the handle of his gun and succeeded in breaking the nose of John Baker. Just then Deputies Shall-cross and Marior appeared, when Stewart's courage failed and he permitted himself to be taken to the county fail in a lamblike manner. like manner.

The friends of the measure contended that the recent charges of speculation in sugar and other products of the farmer ande against the members of the body rendered some such law almost a necessity. A member from Texas asked if the holding of stock in cemetery associations would not, under the provisions of the bill as reported by the committee, render a man ineligible to a seat in congress.

Speaker Reed thought it would, whereup on the Lone Star statesman announced his unceasing opposition to the measure. A gentleman from Connecticut stated that he was a stockholder in an incorporated church. He wanted to know if he would be ineligible for re-election to the body in the event of the passage of the measure. Speaker Reed ruled that he would, where upon he also announced undying opposition to the passage of the bill.

At this juncture a recess of ten minutes was taken, during which informal caucusing was the order and the result was that upon the cohvening of the seession, the bill was so plastered with amendments that further consideration of it was postponed to the acx meeting, pending which its author will endeavor to identify his progeny.

HOME OF FRANK ASKEW ROBBED BY A PORCH CLIMBER.

Miss Maud Askew Scared the Fellow Away After He Had Gathered Up a Few Trinkets-Other Local Criminal News.

While the family of Frank Askew, vice resident of the Askew Saddlery Company, was at supper last night about 7 o'clock, a sneak thief climbed the front porch of the home, at 619 West Tenth street, and opened the window leading into Miss Maud Askew's room by means of a "jimmy." Passing through the young woman's room the thief ransacked Mr. and Mrs. Askew's room. but, inding nothing, returned to Miss Askew's room. There he found several college pins, a necklace, a pearing and an empty pocketbook, which he appropriated. He was looking about the room for other valuables when Miss Askew, who had finished supper, started upstairs. The thief heard her footsteps on the stairs and ran to the window and out on the porch. Miss Askew heard the thief leaving the room, and ran screaming down stairs. Her father met her in the hallway, and, running to the front door, saw the thief cutting around the side of the house. He reported the matter to the police. Wednesday night the house of Wilson Askew, brother of Frank Askew, at 1162 Brooklyn avenue, was entered by a porch climber. He was frightened away before he got anything by Miss Peake Askew, who jumped out of a sick bed and screamed for help. Wilson Askew's house is opposite Chief Hayes' home.

He seemed to be especially interested in the bright Christmas displays in the shop windows. After he had passed each window the man would stop and count his money. In front of the Boston store the man picked up a pair of lady's shoes and started away with them. Caskey followed and arrested the man at Fifth street. At Central police station he gave the name of George W. Raff. When searched it was found that Raff had a bolt of silk dress goods concealed under his vest. He was drunk and could not tell where he got the dress goods.

P. F. Spellman, a traveling man, walked into Captain O'Neill's saloon, at Fifth and Central streets, last night and demanded a drink of G. W. Bright, a colored man behind the bar. He sald:
"Here, nigger; give me a drink."
Bright replied: "I'm no niggah. I'm a Pullman cah portah."

As he said this he reached for an ice pick and threw it at Spellman. It missed its mark and Spellman darted out the door and into the Tremont hotel, where he is a guest. Bright followed him with the ice pick and Spellman asked Officer Nichols to arrest him. He was taken to Central police station, where he was held on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Sandy Holtz, a colored man, was arrested last night on the Southwest boulevard by Officers Cannon and Cook on a charge of stealing a horse and buggy from Mrs. Mary Wiseley, of Armourdale. Made the Story Better.

Made the Story Better.

The New York Observer tells this story of the great D, Chalmers: "Lady Betty Cunningham, having had some difference of opinion with the parish minister, instead of putting her usual contribution method that the collection plate merely gave a stately bow. This having occurred several Sundays in succession, the elder in charge of the plate lost patience and hiarred out:

"We cud dae wi' less o' yer manners and mair o' yer siller, ma leddy."

"Dining on one occasion at the house of a nobleman, Dr. Chalmers happened to repeat the anecdote, whereupon the host, in a not-over-well-pleased tone, said:

"'Are you aware, Dr. Chalmers, that Lady Betty is a relative of mine?"

"I was not aware, my lord.' replied the doctor, but, with your permission, I shall mention the fact the next time I tell the story."
